Paul Eschholz and Alfred Rosa are professors emeriti of English at the University of Vermont. They have directed statewide writing programs and conducted numerous workshops throughout the country on writing and the teaching of writing. Eschholz and Rosa have collaborated on a number of best-selling texts for Bedford/St. Martin's, including Subject & Strategy, Eleventh Edition (2008); Outlooks and Insights: A Reader for College Writers, Fourth Edition (1995); with Virginia Clark, Language Awareness, Tenth Edition (2009); and, with Virginia Clark and Beth Simon, Language: Readings in Language and Culture, Seventh Edition (2007)."

I rent this book from and arrived with extremely bad remark written with a pen on the 3 first page. The book by itself is old and does not present the main point correctly. How to write a essay in old school way and with missing point. For someone that is trying to learn english or write better this is not the book you want to buy. There is newer version with more information. After that the selection of text are great and with lots of topics

Models for Writers is a wonderful asset for all novice writers/authors. I found myself reading and rereading the short samples. The fictional ones had a clear message. I found agreement with ninety nine percent of the journalistic ones that took a position.

An interesting read for my english class. This was required for my course.

I needed this book for a college class and i've ended up using it many times even after that class. Definatly a keeper.

Personal Experience: I used it for about 3 months for a class. It helps entry-level writers to write better essays. Pros/Cons: -Nothing much to say Good book!

My class required this book and I have learned how to write and state thesis

Finally, I got the book on the second attempt, after making an effort to find it. Thanks to the people that made this book an e-textbook. It made my day to be saved on that issue that I had before. Thank God that e-textbooks are very practical.
