As a student at Stanford, she wishes she could continue to enjoy the freedoms she has found there. But Society frowns upon clever and ambitious women, and her Papa is determined she will now learn her place. But Clara is not the kind of girl to take ultimatums lying down and so sets a course of her own making. But will it all end well? Has she finally been too clever for her own happiness? William Gilbert has travelled far and wide as an itinerant preacher and academic, but has finally found a place to call home. When asked to take up the role of minister in Faith Creek's newly built church he didn't hesitate to say yes. He's seen many of the townsfolk find the love of their life, and wants to be the one facing the altar for a change, but will he get everything he dreams of?

I simply cannot say how much I loved this story! I'm a silly old man of 77 and fine a good clean western romance something I can not resist. A happy ending, such as its one always makes me cry!

Thanks

Truly enjoyed the characters and the story. Good clean romance. I do wish it had been longer. So much more could have been added about the education struggles and difficulty for women to study in that century.

good story and interesting characters and time and locations was worked well with the plot can read in on reading

This was very good

I really enjoyed meeting Clara and William. This story is very inspiring! This is a good clean Christian book! Clara is a smart, intelligent woman. The culture frowns upon educated women. Her papa is determined that she should stop her future education and become a wife. But Clara decides to follow a path of her own making. Clara meetings William Gilbert in the library at the college. He has travelled far and wide as an itinerant preacher and academic. Their story has some twists and turns but love prevails. I was provided a free copy of this book by the author for a honest review....but honestly, I have loved reading the story of Clara and William. I just know that you will love it too!!!
