NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC KIDS inspires young adventurers to explore the world through award-winning magazines, books, website, apps, games, toys, television series and events and is the only kids brand with a world-class scientific organization at its core.

This is one of the best gifts for kids under 10. So much information for them to use and gain. Easy to use, nice format so the young mind gets quick bits of data and can move on to the next thing. We have purchased the past few and given as gifts as well. No one ever disliked it. Its great to get your kids interested in the natural world without boring or drawn out stories. My son reads it almost everyday and then proceeds to tell me all kinds of interesting facts from this book. Great product from National Geographic. Anything that can hold their attention and isn't on a screen is something as a parent I am a fan of !!

My 7 year old granddaughter reads this cover to cover numerous times throughout the year! The National Geographic for Kids Almanac and Time for Kids yearly edition are two must haves for her every year and have been since she started reading in the first grade.

I purchased this book for my granddaughters. While doing so, I purchased an extra one to keep at our home. My husband read the entire book shortly after it was delivered. He was absolutely elated with the new found knowledge he discovered through out the book. Well worth the money, and a great source of information to expand your knowledge.

The National Geographic Almanac makes my son's Christmas list every year and Santa happily obliges. He started reading these books when he was five, looking at the pictures and getting help from me with the various sections that caught his eye and now he devours the almanac as soon as he receives. He constantly refers back to these books and has several dogged ear copies on his bookshelf.

A classic best gift. We've been getting this gift for my daughter every year for quite some time. It's funny that I bought a 2017 almanac in the summer of 2016 but there you have it. It's interesting and informative. My kids learn all sorts of trivia but it's stuff that can be applied at school, not useless trivia. My 13 y.o. Daughter loves these and she can't wait for the next year's issue. I've started giving these as summer birthday gifts for the set few years. We also subscribe to Nat Geo Kids - we love NGK in our home.

Too much repeated info this is the third year we bought the almanac and it's very little new information. Won't buy it again next year.

The boy I bought this for is still a bit young for it, but he thumbs through it, asking about some features. I myself find its varied contents extremely interesting and hope it will eventually stimulate him to read. He has a short attention span, too well-trained by video games, so the brevity of the items in the book may be helpful.

one of the best things that you can buy for a kid between 7-11 years old...keeps them busy for hours at home or on the road/in a plane
