A very down to earth and practical book. -- MonosAn eloquent, luminous journey with deeply felt insight. Jaoudi brilliantly leads us by example. -- Esther Denaro Maltese, Ph.D., Nazareth College of RochesterLeads the reader into the quiet of a contemplative life filled with integrated knowledge of spiritual openness. -- NAPRA ReViewStimulating. -- New Directions

Maria Jaoudi is an associate professor in the department of humanities and religious studies at California State University in Sacramento, as well as a well-known retreat director. She is the author of Christian and Islamic Spirituality: Sharing a Journey.

I enjoyed this book and much appreciated the author's depth and breadth of experience and education. My only criticism is that the title is a bit misleading. I thought the book would be more Christian-centric. The author spends considerable space in discussion of other religious traditions. A worth-while read.. but if you are looking for a book specifically focused on Christian mystics, this may not be what you are looking for.

I borrowed this book from a library, kept it for months with sticky tabs all over it, and was hard-pressed to restrain my nervous highlighting hand! Today, I am purchasing the book for myself. This is one of those books that teaches in every sentence. The author's breadth of knowledge and experience make this a wonderful quick-to-read resource on mysticism of all faiths, emphasis on Christianity. I LOVE quotations, so to have excerpts from the mystical fathers/mothers themselves is a treat. Simeon, St Catherine of Siena, Gregory of Nyssa, Meister Eckhart, Bonaventure and more are thoughtfully described and represented here. I have a serious interest in, and enjoyment of, interfaith theologies and practices. I am always looking for the unity, for the this in one faith that supports and affirms the that in another. In my opinion, it is these meeting places that point us to universal truths. Maria Jaoudi has done an excellent job of providing such a meeting place.

I found this work to be elegantly written and soulfully derived for readers and seekers of all levels. Written by a professor whose study of the humanities and world religions as well as teaching experience provides the reader the opportunity to learn from the collective wisdom of the world's sacred traditions in an integrative and conceptual way. The author masterfully paves the way for the reader to find their own personal connection with the material. It's wonderful!

This was the first book I read after becoming interested in contemplative prayer/Christian meditation. It served my limited purposes well by providing a nice "who's who" of contemplative writers, clear explanations sometimes hard-to-grasp concepts, and inspired "practical applications." This book isn't exactly the seminal work on the topic, but still a good read for anyone interested in or just plain curious about contemplative prayer.

I thought this book is going to be interesting but I was wrong! Don't bother reading this book if you are interested in Mysticism because you are going to be disappointed! Every other page seems to be a quote from another source, nothing original. Very boring.
