Double Take (2) (The Amazing Laptop)

Synopsis

Matt and his friends uncover a mysterious secret about Matt's nemesis, Hulk Hooligan. In part two of the Laptop series, the QoolQuad is back for another technological adventure when Matt is tempted to use the laptop to stifle an inevitable confrontation and beef up his own reputation at the same time. Matt and his friends are thrown into a pursuit that only ingenuity, creativity, and a lot of courage will get them through. Will Matt break the "Honor Code"? Will he choose to help his enemy or save himself? Full of suspense and intrigue, anything is possible in this technological thriller. The Amazing Laptop series is a fast-paced, middle-grade Christian series, especially perfect for boys and reluctant readers...though girls love it, too!

In this, the second book in a series of eight, Coach Plymouth at Enisburg High has been framed for changing the student's grades. Can the QoolQuad consisting of four boys (Matt, Lamar, Gill and Alfonzo), along with Matt's special Wordtronix computer, help uncover the real perpetrator? What is

Matt's reward? He has to tutor the school bully, Hulk Hooligan, for a week in order for Hulk to pass his English test! Curious to know how Hulk did, Matt goes to his house at the end of the week. There he discovers that Hulk has a younger brother named Nate. Why is Nate not in school? He is waiting for a new heart! Can Matt and his friends help? Will Matt ever be able to get close to Hulk? Having created an Honor Code in the last book, the boys, and Matt especially, know that they have to be very careful how they use the laptop that brings Matt's writings to life. Tempted to want to always 'interfere' Matt knows that some things truly have to be left up to God. This book is Christian based and Lamar gives Matt encouraging scriptures to read during a rough time. You will also meet the youth pastor who is definitely enthusiastic but a little over the top for my liking! He is there for the boys and their families though and really encourages Matt with the true meaning of compassion which is the main theme of this book. For boys who like basketball they will enjoy the Elmer Fudd talk alike Slammer. With a good introduction, you do not have to have read the first book in the series but of course I recommend you starting at the beginning so you truly discover how this adventure started. Mostly well written with a few editing errors, we read this aloud to our 13, 9 and 6 year old and they are eager to start on the next book in the series. Thanks, Liz

The Hulk, the Slammer, the QoolQuad, the Laptop, and a ton of suspense. What else do you need in a book for boys. Heck, even our daughter loves this book. If you read the first book aloud, don't stop! These are perfect, especially if you're a goof ball dad like me. I really put character into the characters. Slammer sounds like Elmer Fudd. Pastor Ruhlen sounds like a surfer dude, and the Indian doctor sounds like the guy on the Simpsons. Oh, it's a bunch of fun to do this aloud with your boys. Mine was 9 when I read it to him. He's 11 now and just read it for the 3rd time.
