Bought this book for my 15 month old daughter and she loves it! It is one of her favorites. The pages and flaps are thick so it's easy to flip over but hard to rip. Also love that the openings for the flaps are all different. She is currently enjoying copying what the baby is doing on each page. This is such a simple yet wonderful book. Highly recommend! Update: My baby is 17 months old now and this book is falling apart! Yes. The flaps are thicker than most flap books. But because it's thick, the more baby flips the seams start wearing away. We only have two flaps left. The rest have fallen off! Lowering original rating from 5 to 3 stars because book fell apart after a mere 2 months!

This book is great for really young ones and toddlers. My son is 22 months and still really likes it. It is great because it gets the child to participate with identifying their eyes, hands, legs, etc. At the end it references hugging mommy so I always give my boy a big hug and he loves it. I have bought copies as shower gifts since it is good for even newborns because it gets you to interact with them.

Daughter and even her 6-year-old cousin loved this. 6-year-old begged me to make a song to the words as she turned the pages, which entertained the kids immensely in my Adam-Sandler-esque way. Good size and daughter just loves figuring out which way to flip the cover and find the baby. She loves first baby and the reaching high baby especially.

This and only a few other books my daughter has are truly well loved. My daughter is a little weird in that she doesn't want to read books before bed. She wants to read first thing in the morning after her bottle. We've been reading books for over six months, and she's now approaching her first birthday. I choose two books from her shelf, and let her choose which one to read first. If this is one of the offerings, she'll choose this one first. After we read two books, I let her choose which of the two books she wants in her crib with her so she can look at it as much as she wants. She usually chooses this one. She especially loves the first little girl pictured, and gets really excited when I first open the book. I am now reordering this book, because the other was so well loved that one of the flaps is ripped off. I also have to reorder Goodnight Moon for all the love she's shown it.

This is a cute book and my 1 year old loves it. She is really into babies and learning about what babies do. The flaps are pretty sturdy and the book is one she likes to read again and again. I bought this when she was about 10 months old and it was a book she immediately liked. It is always nice when a book stays popular with a baby as they grow and their interests change. I'm glad I bought this book. It has paid for itself.

My baby (10 months) loves looking at photos of other kids and gets a big smile on her face whenever I read this to her. The size of the book is small, but it's easier for her to hold it. She likes to move the flaps while I hold the book for her. I think books that she finds entertaining are great because it's an easy way to make learning fun.UPDATE My daughter is now 18 months old and still loves this book! She now knows all of the body parts in the book and imitates the babies in the pictures. I love reading it to her because the last page talks about a hug for teddy and a hug that's just for you - she'll always lean in for a big hug from her momma. :-)

My 16 month old grandson loves books. He really likes this one and it was a good price.

My son enjoys photographs. He loved this book before he was 1 year old - now he is 18 months and not as interested. The book goes through certain body parts, e.g. eyes, hands, arms. One page reads "I have little hands", open the flap "that wave bye bye!" He learned to wave bye-bye and from another page, arms "reaching high." The flaps are not small - they are actually extensions of the pages, folded over.
