This has been a great series. We are still listening to it. But some of episodes have been kind of scary for my kids who are on the younger side since AIO is dramatizing characters of evil like Satan. It's still a great series, but I think this series is definitely one that parents need to be there to listen to so that they can answer questions on the subject content of this series. It's meant to provoke thought and teach children about using the truth of God's Word in application to their own lives when they are confronted with another World View. The Truth Chronicles comes with a discussion guide which I recommend for parents to review. This series was inspired by Focus on the Family's Truth Project for Middle School and High School students and parents. Something to look into if you are interested in digging deeper into the subject matter discussed in this series.

We first heard this series a few years ago and the Kidsboro story absolutely mesmerized them. They spent all last Summer building Kidsboro in our woods and still talk about it. I bought the book for them for Christmas so that we could extend the adventure since they haven't done any more audio adventures featuring the town. The whole set is on rotation in our car. I especially like to play the Pilgrim's voyage story (Stepping Stones Pt 1 and 2) near Thanksgiving. I count it as a history lesson for our homeschool study and it's well-done and engaging. My kids are well under the 8-12 target audience range and Adventures in Odyssey CD's are the most requested item when we go to the library.

This is one of my all-time favorites from Adventures in Odyssey!! A Biblical worldview is SOOO important to understand, and Focus on the Family explores different worldviews (with a biblical one as the center) in an entertaining, engaging, and effective way.

I purchased this September 2015 when my boys were 5&3, and they absolutely loved listening to it. Not sure how much they actually understood BUT it kept for a nice quiet car ride. My husband and I enjoyed listening to it as well. My favorites were Kidsboro and The Founding of America. We just got the CDs back from my sister and my boys have been listening to it all over again for the third time. Keep up the great work!

We love AIO and this album is no exception. I highly recommend for kids of all ages based on the Truth Project by Focus on the Family this is a very innovative interactive and fun way for kids to learn about how to discern right or wrong, good vs. evil and what is true vs what is false. This is very entertaining for kids from 9 years old and up and I highly recommend for the adults even if you have not taken the Truth Project course before. If you are a true Odyssey fan then this DVD collection or set is a must have!!!

My brother tells me that this was one of his favorite presents. He spends hours and hours and hours listening to Odyssey while playing lego

My 6 year old grandson and I love to listen to these CD's while driving in the car! Great lessons and interesting stories!
