The late Corrie ten Boom is the author of Reflections of God's Glory, Letters from Prison, and In My Father's House. She also wrote the beloved international bestseller, The Hiding Place. Made into a movie by the same name, The Hiding Place portrays her family's efforts to hide Jews during the German occupations of The Netherlands during World War II, and of how God sustained Corrie through the atrocities of a concentration camp after she and her family were captured by the Nazis. Upon her release and until her death in 1983, Corrie traveled the world, preaching the gospel to the lost and encouraging the church with her message of love, faith, and forgiveness.

This book is amazing. Corrie is both intelligent and inspirational. She inspires me to be more Christ centered and more aware of the people in need of Christ around me. This book is definitely worth reading. I'm sure I will read it many more times through out my life.

I have many of daily prayer books. But this one is my very favorite. I love Corrie Ten Boom anyway. I would recommend this book to anyone. Young or old.....

Although this is a book of meditations, it is a book of meditations that relates chapters before and after each other. Sometimes, Corrie even spends multiple chapters discussing a topic. Even though the meditations are labeled as devotions, it is all chronological since the book is based off Corrie Ten Boom's radio broadcasts. Corrie prays for others and praises the Lord at the end of each devotional. She may repeat a favorite piece of scripture a time or two, but it is best to be open minded, especially since they were her favorites and she was rising in years. May peace be with her in heaven.

These 40 devotionals from Corrie ten Boom's radio broadcasts from 1966 until the early 1970s have really impacted my spiritual walk, especially in the area of surrender/submission to God. Corrie shares transparently about her own struggle in this area and gives down-to-earth advice in her earnest, heartfelt way that exhorts her fellow believers to trust and surrender fully to the only One worthy this. Highly recommended!

I love reading Corrie Ten Boom's books. I believe that this one was taken from radio interviews that she gave, so it's nice to be able to read about things that we in America may not have had a chance to get access to. Some of the stories that she tells are in other books that she has written, but I never get tired of reading them again. I know that anyone who enjoys Corrie's books will love this one, too.

I love how Corrie writes and you get a true inside picture of what her life was like. She is very 'common sense.' A breath of fresh air in today's world.

I really enjoyed this book. It strengthened my faith. It confirms that even in the most horrible situations we are not alone and miracles can happen. Her faith is inspiring and she tells her story with a conviction and certainty that God is present and will help get through and be victorious over evil. She also is a witness about the power that forgiveness exerts in our life. I have read it twice. And will keep it as a reference and inspiration, a guide.

I will keep and re-read these over and over. I know that I will benefit from them, there is just too much to take in. Thanks Corrie ten Boom.
