Daddy's Deployment

Synopsis

Daddy's Deployment is a personal account of the struggles and emotions my family faced during a military deployment and how we got through it---prayer and God! Military families face many challenges when a family member goes away on a deployment, and it is especially tough on children. My kids felt happy, lonely, sad, scared, and many other emotions when their daddy deployed. It was especially tough for my son Jake, diagnosed with Asperger's Syndrome, to process all of the emotions he was going through. We sat down to draw pictures and talk about how God would help him through the deployment. That's how this book came to life! God offers us hope, strength, love, and a rainbow after the storms we face. He has always been faithful to my family, and I know he will always be faithful to yours.

Customer Reviews

Lorin Neslony is a military spouse and mother of two children, Jake and Haley. Lorin's son, Jake, was diagnosed with Asperger's Syndrome, and he helped write "Daddy's Deployment." Lorin and Jake are advocates for military families affected by Autism Spectrum Disorders and for military children who endure the many challenges of military life and deployments.

Great book!

This is a great book! It's wonderful to have a religious aspect added to the book along with prayers too!
