I love these books and with the school system set up in this time of age you have to keep your child at least 1 grade a head which I was happy to do this summer with my son and his 2 cousins. I bought Summer Bridge Activities books 6-7, 7- 8 and 4- 5 and now 5-6. To me keeping their minds fresh in the summer just makes the new year a lot more smooth for the parents and especially the teachers. These are amazing books I recommend them to everyone.

I got this for my daughter and she started out with page one to set up her goals. It really gave her a chance to be in control of her own learning. One lesson a day every day during the summer will be a great way to stay on top of school material. This is 2nd year we are doing these books and love the results.

I really do love this series! Sometimes my daughter has questions about the activities since they may have used different vocabulary in her school, but that's to be expected. It does a great job hitting all the subject areas. My one criticism is that each day seems to take a different length of time. It would be nice to know that every day the page would take about the same amount of time.

I have been buying these books for my children for years and I know that this keeps the summer brain drain from happening. Each daily lesson takes about 10-15 minutes and keeps my kids active in an educational environment outside of school.

This book gives a day by day worksheet for kids to do. On each day it gives them 2 different subjects to work on so they won't get burnt out by doing the same topic over and over. The book covers a variety of subjects and lessons and I would recommend it for homework, home schooled kids, or summer.

I have been using Summer Bridge since my oldest finished Kinder. I love the way they start easy and work up to more challenging lessons, but they aren't so demanding that my kids don't want to work in the books. I have always driven 45 minutes to pick these up at a learning store, but was excited to find them on this year!

Appropriately challenging. I really love this series of workbooks. They are appropriate and well done. Very challenging, but not overly. I like the 'facts' they throw in and 'exercise challenges' every 4 pages or so. My kids were raised with these books every summer!

These books simply cannot be beat. We've used them on each of our children since Kindergarten. They are the perfect way to help kids retain info learned in the previous grade and prepare for the grade coming up. One worksheet per day gets you through the whole summer. Outstanding quality.
