Millions of readers have gone on a hunt with or for Spot in his characteristic lift-the-flap format. This book is almost as fresh as that first cry of "Where's Spot?" Here, he's looking for newborn animals on the farm with his father. After several false starts (a mischievous bunny "tweets" behind a bush, the horse hasn't foaled yet), Spot moves in on some piglets and then a few kittens. Telling Mom about it when he gets home is part of the fun, too. Bright colors reveal a hunt that is full of surprises. Young readers will welcome this new Spot book and hope his curiosity doesn't wane. Ages 1-6. PreSchool-K Puppy Spot visits his tractor-driving dad on the farm. Dad sets out to show Spot some baby animals. Spot runs here and there, looking in the barn, in the stable, behind fences, and under bushes for the baby animals. He finally finds the piglets that Dad wanted to show him. Spot then finds and shows Dad some baby kittens in a laundry basket. The bright colors, simple text, and large print on heavy paper make the book attractive, but the lift-up flaps (barn doors, bushes, and gates) which open to reveal more animals are not practical for a circulating library collection. A good choice for use in a preschool story hour, though. Eldon Younce, Harper Elem . School, Kans. I loved these books as a child and now I'm reading them to my baby. They are well made and colorful. My baby loves to help lift the flaps. This particular book is fun because Spot is looking for baby animals with his dad, so you get to make lots of funny animal sounds and there are a couple surprises too.

My 2 year old granddaughter loves it

I got this book for my son because he loves the book, Where's spot? He loves his book just as much as he loves Where's spot? He loves opening the flaps. Recommend this book!

My 11 month old loves this book! Turning the flaps in the pages is always exciting.

The kids (2 1/2 - 3 yr olds) in my class like this book . I would rather read "Where's Spot ?". I gave it 5 stars based on their opinion :)

One of my favorite books for my kids and now my grandchildren

My kids love all the Spot books and this was no exception!

Such a cute book. My two year old loves Spot books!
